Petty bickerings derail impeach hearing

MANILA—Impeachment hearings on the charges against Justice Antonio Carpio were derailed by petty bickerings between the House and Senate on the eve of the proceedings.

Not surprisingly, much of the heated debate over the impeachment of Carpio centered on the role of the Senate in the process.

The House, which is the body that initiates impeachment, has the right to impeach a judge, but the Senate, which is the body that tries the case, has the right to remove the judge from office.

House Speaker Juan Ponce Enrile said that the House should have the right to remove the judge from office, but the Senate should have the right to try the case.

Theater owners united vs VAT

By Susan Lee Hays

THEATRE OWNERS AND MANAGERS have united to fight the proposed 12 percent value-added tax (VAT) on ticket sales. The National Theatre Owners Association (NTOA) has filed a lawsuit with the Department of Justice to challenge the tax. The NTOA argues that the tax is unconstitutional and will harm the theatre industry.

The NTOA is not alone in its fight. The American Theatre Association (ATA) and the National Association of Theatre Owners (NATO) have also filed lawsuits. The lawsuits are part of a larger effort to challenge the VAT on ticket sales. The NTOA argues that the tax is unconstitutional and will harm the theatre industry.

Cebu City under calamity state due to dengue cases

MANILA, Oct. 10 (PDI) — The Cavite provincial government has decried a conspiracy to oust Governor Eduardo Ermita from his post. Ermita, who has been in office since 2007, said he has received numerous threats and has been the target of a "conspiracy" to remove him from his position. He accused a group of individuals of plotting to overthrow him, claiming they are motivated by personal gain and a desire for power. Ermita stated that he has taken necessary precautions to ensure his safety and the security of his family, but he remains determined to continue his duties as governor. He emphasized his commitment to the people of Cavite and his belief in the integrity of his administration.

MANILA, Oct. 10 (PDI) — Cebu City has been declared a calamity state due to the surge in dengue cases. The city government, led by Mayor Ramon Alcaraz, announced the declaration on Wednesday. The city has reported a significant increase in dengue cases over the past few months, with a record number of deaths. The declaration of a calamity state allows the city to access federal disaster funds and other resources to combat the outbreak. Alcaraz said that the city government is implementing various measures to control the spread of dengue, including mass spraying of insecticides, conducting door-to-door campaigns, and improving waste management. He urged the public to remain vigilant and follow the guidelines provided by health authorities.

The city government is also conducting a large-scale cleanup operation to eliminate breeding grounds for mosquitoes. Alcaraz said that the city is working closely with the health department and other agencies to coordinate the response. He expressed his concern for the health and safety of the city's residents and his determination to bring the dengue cases under control as soon as possible. The declaration of a calamity state is a critical step in the city's efforts to address the public health crisis.

The good and bad sides of eating out

THESE DAYS, THE average person has a lot of choices when it comes to eating out. But not all of them are good.

For one thing, eating out can be expensive. A meal for two at a mid-range restaurant can easily cost $40 or more. And if you're eating out often, that adds up. A study by the National Restaurant Association found that the average household spends about $1,000 a year on eating out. That's a lot of money.

Another problem is that eating out can be unhealthy. Many restaurants serve food that is high in calories, fat, and sodium. A single meal can contain more than 1,000 calories and 100 grams of fat. That's not good for your health.

But there are also good reasons to eat out. Eating out can be a fun way to spend time with friends and family. It can also be a good way to try new foods and cuisines. And if you're eating out often, you can support local businesses.
